Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: In regards to "time accounting", in order to hold more weight, it needs to be defined within the body of the claims.

Claim 21, "moving the current time representation" is graphical instead of textual and incrementing. The prior art teaches a digital clock advancing. This limitation overcomes the prior art.

Claim 6, Applicant argued "user generated task" does not correspond to the "events" used in Microsoft Outlook.

Applicant defined task as pre selected and does not require the used to define the task after time is defined. Examiner said she would need to look at the prior art closer to decide if they do or do not correspond.

Claim 13, "moving the start representation of the second ..." overcomes Microsoft Outlook where Outlook only provides a warning if tasks are scheduled during the same time.

A new search would be given based on discussions if RCE is filed.
